

evening.

Private Philip Traynor, Empire avenue, Port Arthur, who went away with the 94th battalion, returned home on Saturday afternoon. He never got a scratch, and was through some of the big engagements. He crossed the Atlantic on the Belgic, and has nothing but praise to utter of the way he was treated on the boat and the train. Private Traynor is a thorough optimist. "On the whole, I had a pretty good time when I was away," he said. "There are thousands of others far worse off than I am. I have seen a lot, have my health and strength and have no kick coming."
