

John Strang

Another casualty was added to the long list of the 94th battalion yesterday when John Strang, of Selkirk, Manitoba, died following shell shock contracted in France. The deceased was fifty-seven years of age and served, together with four of his five sons, the youngest of whom is thirteen years, in the war. The remains will be shipped to Fort William and the date of the funeral will be announced later.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Strang, of 224 south Archibald street, five sons, four of whom are home, the fifth not having yet secured his discharge from the army, and two daughters, living at home.
